Intercampus Student Council Update

Tigers Taking On Big Projects

“I’m really proud of myself for sticking through this really big project and having a published paper come out of it. I couldn’t have done that without the support that I’ve received from my peers and mentors in the Department of Geological Sciences here at Mizzou.” - Mikaela Pulsipher, Mizzou PhD Student

Roos Learn through Community Engagement

"Knowing that this project was going to potentially contribute to a major infrastructure project made it one of the most interesting projects in my college career. The project's proximity to where I study and live inspired me."

- Jordan Salt, UMKC Senior Design Student

Tritons Training to Enter Workforce

“Simulation builds safety. Safety not only for patients through professional development but also safety for us students. It is a safe space for us to learn; we can learn through our mistakes and better our clinical skills.”

- Ohia Obioha, UMSL BSN Student

Miners Making a Difference

“The important thing is: How hard are you willing to work? If you’re willing to put in the time and effort required, then absolutely, you can do it.”

- Ean Buffington, finalist for the 2021 ROTC All-Americans
